“Walk on the Wild Side”

presented by guest lecturer

Betsy Gagné

*Executive Secretary,
NARS Commission*

Division of Forestry and Wildlife Department of Land and Natural Resources

Ever wonder about the natural world that exists just outside of our homes and offices? It is a past, present and future to invest and believe in. Just as saving money is a part of your investment in life, so are the many unique places and critters that call Hawai'i – and nowhere else on the planet! – home. Come share a visual walk on the wild side of life on lands managed by the State of Hawai'i. Learn about the important role these areas play in the natural and cultural history of Hawai'i and how the Natural Area Reserves System program is working with other private and public organizations to accomplish a great deal on not very much funding.

Betsy was born and raised on O'ahu (Roosevelt HS and UH graduate) and has had a lifelong interest in and involvement with native ecosystems, both here and other islands in the Pacific. Her background includes building fences and vegetation management at Haleakalā National Park for 8 years and 17 years at the Division of Forestry and Wildlife.
